5.1 Source-To-Pay

Supplement 3
Payment Terms Exceptions

Below are authorized exceptions from the Company payment terms. All other payment terms exceptions for supplier contracts negotiated locally must be approved in line with the requirements outlined in SPP 5.1.

Note: The Company's standard payment terms of 60 days and 120 days are applicable from the invoice date. The below preapproved exceptions to the standard payment terms, are also based on the assumption of invoice receipt.

Advance payments to vendors/suppliers without an invoice are subject to the payment terms approval process as outlined in policy.

• Bottler payments (e.g., marketing, incidence pricing)[1] • Customer payments, including rebates • Associate T&E and Purchasing Cards • Reimbursement to employee or non-employee individuals (e.g., recruits, rent, lease payments, interview costs) • Expenses related to security provided for executives[2] • Board of Directors • Utilities • Rental and lease payments • Government - local and national • Taxes • Charitable donations • Insurance & benefits agreements	• M&A/Treasury • Joint Development Agreements • Expatriate-related payments (e.g., rent) • Intercompany transactions • Events & Meetings[3] • Purchase Records • Payment terms required by local country laws and regulations • Strategic Roster and Boutique Roster Marketing Agencies[4] • WPP Agencies[5] • Marketing Production[6] • Marketing Assets[7] • Promotional Prizes (including coupons) • Coca-Cola Store Merchandise[8]

[1] Bottler Payments for finished goods is not an exception and must follow normal credit terms.

[2] Payments for ongoing security monitoring services must follow normal payment terms.

[3] Best practice is that only deposits for events and meetings are paid upfront and the balance is settled 30-60 days following the event.

[4] 90 days payment terms, unless local laws prohibit and /or industry trend in the region is higher

[5] 90 day payment terms, generally. 90 day payment terms do not apply to certain hyper-inflationary markets ("Exception Markets") as agreed in the WPP CAMSA (30 or 60 day terms), and where local laws and regulations dictate otherwise. For specific details on Exception Markets, please contact Global Marketing Procurement Legal.

[6] "Production" expenses, including 'Influencer' payments, must follow Integrated Content Production Guidelines (ICPG).

[7] Marketing asset contracts (excluding influencer contracts) with annual spend of $200,000 USD and above will have 60 days payment terms, provided that no more than 33% of annual fee is paid in the first installment. Approval for marketing asset contracts (excluding influencer contracts) with annual spend of less than $200,000 USD to be paid as outlined in the marketing asset contract.

[8] 30 days payment terms, for vendors of retail merchandise for resale exclusive to the Coca-Cola stores.
